Oil India

Non-recurring items cloud reported earnings

- 3QFY21 core earnings were better than expected, but reported earnings were impacted by major non-recurring items.
- We change estimates to reflect FY21 non-recurring items and change in Brent oil forecasts
- Maintain Add rating and SOP-based target price of Rs155. Sharp drop in oil price is the main risk to rating.

3Q impacted by major non-recurring items

OIL's 3Q numbers had some large non-recurring items, but revenues and core earnings were better than our expectations. Standalone revenue at Rs21.3bn was 2.5% above expectations. While oil pricing improved qoq in line with global benchmarks, gas pricing dropped as per government-determined pricing formula. Earnings before interest, depreciation and exploration expenses (EBITDAX) at Rs7.56bn was 10% above our estimates. Reported profits were impacted by three large non-recurring items – (1) exploration expenses at Rs8.5bn reflected the unusually large provision for unsuccessful wells, (2) the loss relating to the Bhagjan well blowout (reported as exceptional) of Rs1.5bn (Rs3.8bn for 9MFY21), and (3) the current tax writeback of Rs11.6bn relating to prior years on settlement of old tax disputes, post the company availing of government tax amnesty scheme. The tax writeback enabled OIL to declare an interim dividend of Rs3.5/share.

Earnings estimate changes reflect crude oil price forecast change

We raise our Brent oil price forecast from US$40/45 per barrel to US$43/50 per barrel over FY21/22F, keeping FY23F unchanged at US$50/bbl. We raise our FY21F EPS estimate by 47% and FY22F by 8%, dropping FY23F by 6%. These reflect the impact of non-recurring items of 9MFY21 as well as our changes in our oil price forecast.

Management commentary provided update on operations

OIL stated that it had a plan to raise its domestic oil production from 3mmt in FY20 to 4mmt by FY25 (our estimates disregard this guidance and assume slight decline from FY20 levels in view of prior disappointments on this issue). FY21/22F capex would be around Rs40bn. Standalone debt was US$1.27bn as at Dec 2020, solely for the Mozambique asset. The Bhagjan well was capped in Nov 2020, implying no additional costs in 4QFY21F.

Reiterate Add rating with TP of Rs155

The OIL stock price recovered in the last quarter on account of a jump in global oil prices, but the stock remains significantly undervalued, in our view. We note that OIL has invested over US$1bn in its Mozambique asset whose development is delayed (first gas production only in CY24) and whose returns are contingent on an uncertain global oil/gas price environment. Other than the oil price, a positive surprise could come from some favourable policy action from the government in terms of deregulation of domestic gas prices.
