Rallis India Ltd

Misses on EPS continue; downgrade to Hold

- Business challenges like supply chain disruption and raw material availability have led to continuous disappointment on the EPS front.
- We believe these issues will continue to persist in the near term, which will impact profitability of the company.
- We cut our EPS estimate for FY23F by 25.6% and introduce FY24F and FY25F numbers. We downgrade the stock to Hold with a new target price of Rs240.

Multiple headwinds to growth trajectory

Rallis' management, at 4QFY22 con-call, highlighted that the business has been impacted due to three reasons - supply chain disruption, availability of raw materials and excessive rainfall across certain regions which has hit overall product offtake. Around 50% of the company's key raw materials are being procured from China. The company is trying to resort to domestic sourcing of raw material, but we believe that it will still be a near-term challenge. Higher inventory is also one of the other concerns as there are sales returns due to logistics problems. Rising crude oil and base chemical product prices are a structural risk and Rallis is facing the same. We don't believe these risks are going to abate in the near to medium term and hence, we have cut our EPS estimates and downgraded the stock to Hold (from Add earlier).

Rising cost of key raw materials will hurt margins

The company had highlighted in the con-call that rising input cost is a key concern to margins as the price hikes have not been able to absorb cost inflation. While average freight cost has gone up by 1.7x, solvents' cost has risen by 1.5x since 1QFY22. Natural gas price has also increased by 1.7x since 1QFY22. The cost of one key raw material has also risen by 1.2x since 1QFY22. We believe all this will impact the company's earnings in the near term.

New product launches and capacity expansion to help Rallis

In FY22, Rallis added six new products in the crop protection segment. The company is also undertaking capacity expansion and debottlenecking of capacity for some of its products like hexaconazole, metalaxyl, acetamiprid, and lambda cyhalothrin. We believe this will help the company to partially offset the major concerns of the business.

We value Rallis at 20x FY24F EPS and downgrade its rating to Hold

Despite price hikes, Rallis is not able to fully absorb cost inflation. Given raw material supply and logistics problems and volatile earnings, we have valued the stock at 20x FY24F EPS and downgraded our rating on it to Hold (from Add earlier) with a target price of Rs240 (from Rs355 earlier). Risks: While we cut gross margin to account for raw material cost pressure, in a rising raw material scenario gross margin can surprise negatively. On the positive side, big global demand tailwind (although unlikely in a high inflationary scenario) can lead to a positive surprise on the earnings per share or EPS front.
